A MOTHERS ROLE

Nothing can prepare a woman for motherhood; we can talk to each other, ask many questions and still be none the wiser. Unfortunately babies do not come with a manual telling us how to care and love them. For some the arrival of a new baby can be sweetness and life but for others it can be just the opposite.

As our children grow the job of been a mother can have its ups and downs and again there is no manual with clear instructions on how we should react. Just like every mother is unique in how she cares and loves a child, so too our children are unique. As mothers face new and challenging behaviour from their children there may be times when they do not know which way to turn or what they can do to help. At times the relationship between a mother and her child may seem like it has been pushed to its limits, but there are also times when she feels closer to her children than she ever thought humanly possible.

Whether you are a mother, step-mother, foster mother, grandmother, aunt, sister, or family friend you can make a lasting impression on the children in your care. Our children may not come with a 'user manual' but there is a book that we can always turn to in both good and bad times and that book is the Bible.

In the bible we can read that parents should be like, what their duties entail but there is something in the bible that no other manual on rising children contains and that is this promise from God:

'Have I not commanded you? Be strong and courageous. Do not be frightened, and do not be dismayed, for the Lord your God is with you wherever you go.' Joshua 1:9

So whatever this year's Mother's day brings your way, just remember you do not have to face it alone. God is only a prayer away.

Retelling the story of Jacob's Ladder

As Jacob flees from Esau on his way to Haran, he comes to a "certain place" and lays down to rest for the evening as the sun is setting. He then dreams of a magnificent ladder that is set up on earth and reaches to heaven on top. Jacob witnesses angels travelling up and down the ladder making their way to earth and back to heaven. He then sees the Lord standing above, who says to Jacob "I am the Lord, the God of Abraham your father and the God of Isaac. The land on which you lie I will give to you and your offspring." God tells Jacob that his offspring shall spread across the world and that "in you and your offspring shall all the families of the earth be blessed." God informs Jacob he will stay with him wherever he goes and will eventually bring him back to the land where he is having the dream. Jacobs awakes and proclaims "How awesome is this land! this is none other than the house of God and the gate of heaven." Jacob would rename that land "Bethel" meaning the house of God.
